August 2018

Dear Educator,

On Tuesday, October 23, 2018, the West Suburban Symphony Orchestra of Hinsdale will present its 27th annual concert for school children, A Musical Adventure. This concert is a wonderful opportunity to share the excitement of a live orchestra performance with your students at a modest cost.

Conductor Peter Lipari will lead our internationally acclaimed orchestra in music that will capture your students' imagination – all while teaching them about the sound of each instrument in the orchestra, how orchestra members make music together, and the emotions evoked by music.

Your students will be delighted by the program, which features a variety of classical and contemporary music:

- The first and last movements from Alexander Borodin's 1876 Symphony No. 2
- Charles Gounod's 1879 Funeral March of a Marionette, best known as the theme song of the Alfred Hitchcock television show
- Russell Brower's theme music from the World of Warcraft video game

Many recordings of Borodin's and Gounod's music are available on YouTube, to help you prepare your class for the concert. The program is especially well suited for students in grades 3-6. In the past, entire grade levels, band and orchestra members, and general music classes have attended

A registration form is included with this letter. Reservations with payment are accepted first-come, first served, until all seats are filled.

I hope to see you on October 23!

Sincerely,

Richard Lukes, President
West Suburban Symphony Society

Concert Venue

The West Suburban Symphony has rented Christ Church of Oak Brook as the venue for this educational concert. The Society has used this facility for past educational concerts, and has received occasional questions regarding the use of a church for the concert.

Because the Symphony does not own a concert hall, it rents space for its performances from schools, churches, and other facilities. Performing in churches is a common practice for community orchestras nation-wide, due to a shortage of reasonably priced traditional concert halls and limited rental availability of school auditoriums.

Christ Church provides an outstanding venue for this event:

- Seats over 1000 schoolchildren
- Ample bus parking
- Easy to reach from major highways
- Wheelchair accessible
- Excellent acoustics
- Good lines of sight for the audience
- Low cost

In addition, school auditoriums with comparable features are not available for rental in October, due to set construction for, and presentation of, theater productions.

The West Suburban Symphony is not affiliated with any religious organization, there is no religious content in the concert program, and no church representative will participate in the program or interact with the students.
